I've finally managed to fit in some time for some blogging. Time flying by, so much to do, so little time to do it in, sometimes it's not always the other way around!!! Many of you know I went to visit Carmen at the end of November 2014. Life was a lot different back then. Carmen had her 11th birthday with a bang and Emmeline and I wished her a happy day. She thought it was wonderful to have a wish come true! What a beautiful celebration she had, from a song which her Daddy listened to for her all the way through, to her wish to go to Disneyland. And, of course, she did!! A picture of her and the Mouse. I remember very well that day, how Emmeline and I felt. We did it all so fast, we were so happy. It was so much fun. And Carmen got her wish!! So much fun. Carmen had a dinner at a Chinese restaurant, with her friends and family. There was much happiness. Still more happiness came with Carmen and Mandy's first bedroom door project. Our kids have played with one another all their lives and they both really like each other. I'm glad they met and became friends. There's always room for more friends in our house, I'm glad that there's enough room and space. It might sound strange because they are such close sisters, but they are like any other brother and sister. The weekend after Carmen's birthday, Emmeline and I both had a sore throat. It was a bit strange and I'm not sure what it was. I have a lot of allergies, a lot of them. It's been running through the house, I'm always sneezing, coughing and getting my eyes red. I'm taking the precautions I should. I know enough to not take any of the trouble and wait for my doctor to tell me what it is. I did get a prescription for it though. We can't do without the medication. It must be the weather. We had a lot of rain, most of it very heavy rain. And as it's summer
